StoreFloor Loading Advice

StoreFloor has been tested to withstand high loads, so the weight you can place on this floor is limited by the strength of the joists beneath it. In most properties, this means it is safe for one person to walk on, plus up to 25kg of loading from stored items per square metre. If you are in doubt about the strength of the joists in this property, please seek advice from a structural engineer.

Be careful near the edges: remember that outside the StoreFloor area, the ceiling between the joists will not withstand your weight.
